On December 30th, 2011, Roblox sent a DMCA notice to Awaited Studios to take down "Infinity: The Quest to the End of the Universe" after noticing that they were releasing code from ROBLOX in their game. Since then, the company has kept all of its released code in a separate source file called "robux".

Spamming: Roblox has been criticized for its extreme amount of spam. Some examples include the "Free Robux" scam, where people are tricked into giving their username and password to a third party so that they can steal their Robux, and the "You Have Been Tricked" scam, which consists of the offender saying something along the lines of "DON'T TRUST. HE IS TROLLING ME."

- The game is too expensive. I cringe when I see that a certain hat costs 2 million Robux. Robux are the currency used in Roblox, and I have no idea where to get them in game. But it's pretty obvious that you have to pay real money for them or use your parents' credit card to access the store. And if you do use your parents' credit card, then they'll try to find out why you were so interested in a child's game and they will most certainly look at the Roblox website or app, which will reveal that there are so many games with suggestive themes/language that it will make your eyes bleed (and your mom/dad's too).

The roblox fly hack is not an entirely trackable game. It has been used to cheat on the game, blow up your inventory with limitless weapons and even get the creator's account. The game uses a form of tracking that makes it possible for people to use loopholes in the system and also detect when someone is using these glitches. The creators of the game have done research into ways to combat this issue, however, no viable solution has been found thus far.

In response to these criticism, the ROBLOX website says that "Roblox does not condone the use of unauthorized software programs in games.". However, this is not always the case as all users have full access to all of their content. In addition, if a publisher chooses to remove a particular asset from their game they cannot be held accountable for it."
