On December 15th, 2018, ROBLOX announced the end of the open beta for their new trading system. The company removed the ability to trade in-game currency among users and limited users' ability to purchase system currency from outside sources while adding even more security features by requiring cards or other forms of identification before buying virtual currency. The reason for the change was to prevent users from spending too much virtual currency on outside purchases of no value to the user. The system was a success, reducing the rate of fraud.[25]

The game is not very challenging. Even though there are a lot of games available on it, there isn't much in the way of difficulty. This is a big negative in my opinion - especially for older kids who love to face tough challenges such as some video games on the market now which can sometimes be really difficult and where you have to wait for many hours in order to even pass the game. This might be a problem if you are playing with smaller children - some games on roblox are known to last for days or weeks before they finish. My 6 year old absolutely loves roblox and games like this are great for that age group. If you're looking to play with kids older than that then I'd suggest looking at something else. There is some violence in the game, but nothing major (for example you can only fight by swinging a sword or shooting a gun, rather than hand to hand fighting) and it's all in the context of a game. Overall we love it and it was worth the money!

I was also kind of surprised at how far back the game went in time; it was created back in 2005, which I know is quite a long time ago. It's kind of scary how quickly things have changed since then. But though I am young, I thought that Minecraft was always meant for little kids; unlike Roblox, it wasn't purchased by me or my parents, and there were no advertisements present. So my opinion on both games is that they are really great for little kids because they're safe and easy to use. For adults, they are not worth the time. But from what I have heard, and from my own experiences, Roblox is a game that all kindergartners should be playing. It's definitely not recommended for adults or even teenagers.
