Looking back at my own experience with Minecraft, it's so easy to see why people were so obsessed with it. The game was all about survival. It was about building a new life out of nothing. Things that would make you successful weren't free; they required you to work hard for them. But they were worth the wait, because it would mean you'd gather more items over time, and then you could make your house bigger or better fortified. The game was about connecting with your friends, and making sure that they were safe and able to live their own lives in the Minecraft world as well.

On June 26th, 2018, ROBLOX CEO John Hanke made an announcement on Twitter that the company would be removing the ability to create avatars for users within games and requiring new avatars to be created instead. Once this update was implemented however, users were able to create new models based on existing ones and preserve them as a template which they could then upload into games alongside their original avatar. This update was to lower fraud within the site with copyright infringement and promoting copyright infringement by bypassing game mechanics by allowing users to create avatars of other users' games.[21]

If you play "Robloxian life" long enough, you'll notice that the costs really add up. For every point someone wins, the game will cost the player between $3-$10 depending on how many points are needed to win a double prize. Although this is not completely true for all games, it does affect most games so players can expect to spend a lot of money just for some points or winning prizes.
