One of the features that differentiated TikTok from other short-video sharing platforms at the time was its focus on lip syncing. The feature was made available to all users and is only available when recording videos; users have the option of turning off the feature if they wish to.",

With all the hype that has surrounded it, TikTok is one of those things which is turning out to be bigger than we thought. We'll just have wait and see how it pans out in the long term. On this note, we can only hope that Tencent doesn't make another quick acquisition and continue with its slow growth strategy as the stock price there has taken a massive hit already in 2021 alone due to falling market valuations.",

In August 2021, it was reported that the app would be launching a new feature called Live.ly which is described as a live-streaming platform like Periscope or Facebook Live designed for musical performers and another feature called Amplify that will let artists easily make money from their short videos. The company had previously attempted to launch its own live-streaming platform on its musical.ly app but the service was never officially released due to issues with app stores, namely Apple's App Store which refused to permit any live-streaming applications upon its launch.", TikTok may be missing features such as a video editor, and its data intensive nature may make it difficult for the app to gain traction in markets where data usage is increasingly expensive.",

The app has received mixed reviews, having been criticized for a lack of clarity about what is inappropriate content on its platform and concerns being raised over issues including privacy options and safety. Its unique features such as the live video feature have been praised by users and media sources alike. Furthermore, while some have criticized the fact that it is not integrated with other social media networks, others of Mozillians applauded its different use case of short videos as an alternative to Snapchat or Instagram's stories feature.",
