Users actually generally hate ads on ROBLOX, but they do them anyway for their own benefit and gain. Ads are actually a great way of generating revenue for ROBLOX, mostly because they only show up when you have enough money to be annoyed with the ads.

ROBLOX has official clients for Windows, macOS, Linux, iOS, Android, Xbox One, and PlayStation 4. ROBLOX also has a game engine called "Build" which can be downloaded for free to those wishing to develop games for their website. Although not officially supported by ROBLOX themselves, the client source code is also available on GitHub. As such, there are unofficial ports of ROBLOX to other platforms not supported officially by ROBLOX such as Xbox 360, Raspberry Pi and Tizen. An early attempt at an iPhone port in 2010 was unsuccessful due to concerns over the stability of the platform and a lack of toolchain support.

On July 3rd, 2018, ROBLOX announced that they were no longer allowing people to make custom models for their games. Instead, they would be allowing users to build blocky models that could not be edited at all. They stated that this would prevent the creation of custom models and save money by preventing expensive data transfers.[22] The change was made in order to clean up the game because custom models complicates the "Roblox experience" in some cases.

This is mostly used for buying virtual items such as weapons or accessories on Roblox's marketplace and selling them at a profit, which is rather common as people often sell their in-game belongings/items for real money .
